Welcome to the pack

THE WOLF CODE | VERSION 1.2 | OCTOBER 2026

Loyalty is Everything

Shadow Ninja Wolves Nation was founded April 1, 2014 and is led by Alpha ZenNobi. W07F means We Only Live Forever. We howl at the same moon.

What loyalty looks like

Be honest. Respect privacy. Support the pack. Own your mistakes. Speak up when something is wrong. Loyalty never means hiding misconduct.

One code for everyone

These rules cover recruits, members, and leadership in crew chats, events, games, and crew-related posts. Rank, friendship, and seniority do not excuse disrespect.

When these rules begin

Version 1.2 | October 7, 2026. Rules take effect when leadership announces adoption and shares this handbook. Changes must be announced. Existing sanctions need separate review.

Respect and gameplay

Stop when someone says stop
Trash talk is welcome only when everyone is comfortable. A boundary is not an invitation to argue. Repeated insults or targeting are not just jokes.

No harassment
No slurs, unwanted sexual comments, threats, stalking, doxxing, or attacks on someone's identity or private life. Never pressure members to share personal information.

Keep competition in the game
Follow the host's rules. No sabotaging events or repeatedly targeting someone over a personal dispute. An in-game rivalry does not permit harassment afterward.

Respect the pause
When a moderator or host stops an argument, stop. Report the concern privately instead of restarting it in another channel.

Be honest and accountable
No fake evidence, impersonation, rumors presented as facts, or dogpiling. Correct misinformation. Apologize for your behavior and explain what will change. Forgiveness cannot be forced.

Privacy and screenshots

Keep private business private
Do not leak private messages, restricted chats, applications, or disciplinary records. Sharing them with outsiders to fuel a dispute can breach trust.

Send evidence to leadership
Private reports may include relevant screenshots, clips, and witnesses. Give dates and context. Keep originals and label cropped or edited copies. Never fabricate evidence.

Outside support is allowed
You may talk to trusted friends or family. Avoid exposing private messages or identifying details unnecessarily. Do not recruit outsiders to pressure members.

Safety comes first
You may report threats, abuse, or harassment to a platform, trusted support person, or appropriate authorities without crew permission.

Ask before recording
Get agreement before recording private voice chats. Announce streams before events. Never turn a private argument into content. Leadership limits report access to necessary reviewers.

Conflict and reporting

1. Pause the argument
Cool down. A host may pause an event or separate people. Temporary restrictions keep order; they are not a final finding.

2. Report privately
Contact a moderator, higher-up, or Alpha ZenNobi. You do not have to confront the person first. Share what happened, when, evidence, and the help you need.

3. Hear the relevant sides
An uninvolved reviewer checks context and hears each person. No forced joint calls or public apologies. Unproven reports are not automatically false reports.

4. Explain the decision
Leadership privately states the finding, rule, action, duration, and review date. Uncertain facts must be described as uncertain.

5. Follow up without retaliation
Check that the behavior stopped. No threats, dogpiling, exclusion campaigns, or tag pressure for reporting honestly. New evidence can reopen a case.

If leadership is involved
Go to an uninvolved higher-up. Complaints about the Founder receive a written recommendation from uninvolved higher-ups before the final decision.

Leadership and representation

Alpha ZenNobi and higher-ups
Alpha ZenNobi oversees membership, roles, and alliances. Higher-ups support members and review assigned cases. Anyone involved in a dispute steps out of reviewing it.

Moderators and event hosts
Moderators stop disruption and record temporary restrictions. Hosts enforce session rules. Permanent removal requires authorized leadership review.

Recruiters and content team
Recruiters explain requirements and guide applications. Content teams coordinate approved posts and protect privacy. Neither role grants automatic disciplinary authority.

Speak for yourself
Only authorized leaders may announce alliances, promise crew support, or make official commitments. Do not use W07F to threaten others or pull allies into personal disputes.

Use the brand honestly
Tags and titles must match your actual standing. Commercial branding needs Founder approval. Get permission before posting private information. Outside friendships are welcome.

Membership and activity

Joining the pack

General recruitment is 21+, with Discord and agreement to this handbook. Any division exception must be stated before joining. Leadership confirms approval and recruit conditions.

Represent W07F

Follow the main-crew agreement explained at onboarding. No repeated crew hopping for status or secretly recruiting members into a competing crew. Disclose conflicting leadership roles.

Communicate your availability

Reply to required check-ins. Tell leadership when you need a break. Work, family, health, and life come first. Attendance expectations must be announced in advance.

Be a good event member

Read the platform, time, and rules. Use a mic when required. Tell the host if plans change. Do not pressure people to spend money or stay online.

Use current game rules

Follow the posted rules for each playlist or RP session. Retired Gangland RP rules do not return through this handbook. New rules must be shared before play.

Onboarding checklist

Read the handbook. Confirm expectations. Receive your approved roles. Submit acknowledgment. Inactivity should first prompt a private check-in, not public embarrassment.

Discipline and probation

The usual steps

Coaching > written warning > probation > suspension or restrictions > removal. Serious threats, doxxing, or severe harassment may skip steps. Explain why.

A fair written decision

Consider evidence, severity, context, and repeated behavior. State the rule, finding, action, duration, and reviewer. No favoritism, guilt by association, or public humiliation.

Probation has clear dates

Default: 30 calendar days unless the notice gives another length and reason. List start, end, check-ins, restrictions, and required changes. A game release is not an end date.

Tags are not removed automatically

Specify any tag, access, or leadership restriction. During probation, no official crew commitments or case-review duties. No begging, payment, or humiliation to regain standing.

Review and restore

At review, restore standing, extend with reasons and a new date, change restrictions, or remove membership. Explain delays and what remains in force. Silence is not a decision.

Request a review

Ask within seven calendar days. An uninvolved higher-up reviews where possible. Aim for a response within seven days; explain delays. Existing sanctions require separate review.

Leaving and acknowledgment

Leave with dignity
You may leave without harassment. Tell leadership when practical. Official roles and access end; remove branding that implies current membership. Rejoining needs approval and clear conditions.

Privacy still matters
Neither former members nor leadership may expose private information for retaliation. You may keep your own evidence for legitimate reporting or safety.

Member agreement
I have read and agree to this handbook, version 1.2. I may report concerns without retaliation and request review of a decision.
